Trola was also there with her odd ditties, and so were Joe Flynn, Hodges and Larchmere, Farnum and Seymour, Lang and Dixon, the National Trio, and the Cornella brothers.

HUBER'S MUSEUM. HUBER'S MUSEUM.

At Huber's Museum "Black Crook," the horse that skates on rollers, was the principal attraction yesterday. In the curio halls were Master Morningstar, the boy globe-trotter, who has just returned from a trip around the world; the Hindoo glants, with their wives, Prof. Wormwood's monkey and dog circus, and Julien, with her den of snakes. Living pictures and a vaudeville company were also seen.

been running, and no end of "suckers have fallen into their net. Last Saturday night, when several passengers denounced the practice, big row was nearly precipitated. I is said that as many as three shell games were being operated in the cabins of one of the ferry-boats, and the gamblers received bets anywhere from 10 cents to $20, and, of course, onl the cappers and the gamblers were the winners.

"I am loath to believe," said he to an "Evening World" reporter to-day, "that the employees of the Ferry Company are in the pay of the samblers, but it looks very much as if that state of affairs was true.

"I came back from Maspeth to this city last Saturday night about 11:30 or clock. There was a big crowd of people on board, many of them late passengers from the races. We had no sooner left the Broadway dock in Brooklyn when the gamblers flashed out their shell-game boards. They laid the boards on their knees and offered the usual odds that a man could not pick out the shell covering the pea.

"I saw many of the victims drawn on by the cappers, for there were two or three of them to each game. I stood up on one of the seats in the cabin and shouted to the men who were being drawn into the game to avoid the shooks.

"This aroused the gamblers to anger, and several of the cappers surrounded me. I was commanded to hold my tongue or I would be thrown through the cabin window.

"Other of the respectable passengers sympathized with my effort to bring the gamblers to time, but it grew so hot in the cabin that I really was afraid of bodily harm.

"But the gambling continued on just the same until we reached this city. Hefore reaching here I had appealed to and threatened the deckhands to stop the shell games, but to no purpose. Even when I declared that I would report their conduct to the Company, they continued to watch the game and hugely enjoyed the 'sport'.

"I don't believe that it would amount to much to personally inform the Company. "The Evening World" can mon the nuisance.

"On leaving the beat, two men gave me their names and add: 'Call on us if you need any evidence'.

The slips of the East Twenty-third street ferry, which is run by the New York Ferry Company, are on the New York side, in the Eighteent Police Precinct, or under Capt. John Gallagher's jurisdiction. Inspector Williams, in whose district this is, said this morning that he had never heard of gamblers working the shell game in the ferry-boats, and that he would make an investigation.
